reproductive health. sexual health. men's health

■ The Andrology Service of Fundació Puigvert is pleased to announce that its 17th Andrology Course will take place in Barcelona on 23, 24 and 25 October 2019, under the title "Reproductive Health, Sexual Health, Men's Health".

Our objective is to offer all participants an ideal opportunity to exchange knowledge and experiences in the field of Andrology.

We count on the participation of nationally and internationally recognised faculty who will be discussing the latest advances in Andrology through different modules, theoretical as well as practical and the recognition of the European Academy of Andrology.

The course will comprise three parts. The first day will be dedicated to Reproductive Medicine, the second to Sexual Medicine, and the third to a more practical course, "Genital Reconstruction and Prosthetic Surgery Masterclass", with live surgery and talks from high-level faculty members.

We are offering workshops on specific topics and aim to promote interactive relationships between attendees and faculty.

In order to facilitate attendance for those with differing interests, we are offering three types of registration: a theoretical course on 23–24 October, a practical course on 25 October and theoretical-practical course 23–25 October. Interactive workshops will also be offered (see registration information).

It will be an honour to once again share with you the Fundació Puigvert Andrology Course, and we hope that you enjoy your stay in Barcelona.
